

San Antonio ISD's Cooper Academy Dropout Recovery Program seeks out students who are unable to complete high school in a traditional setting. These students receive one-to-one counseling and formulate a plan to earn credits for graduation on a flexible or modified daily schedule. There are two satellite locations for this program: Highlands High School and the United Methodist Church (near Jefferson HS). Students are recommended for this program by their high school counselors. Parents and students who are interested in this program should contact their high school counselor for information.
