

Thomas A. Edison High School is an award-winning high school in the San Antonio Independent School District in North Central San Antonio

,
Texas

. The school was opened in 1929 on what is now the present-day campus for Whittier Middle School. In 1958, it was relocated to its current location on 701 Santa Monica Blvd. Serving SAISD, Edison boasts an enrollment of approximately 1700 students. The faculty to student ratio is approximately 1:15 in core subject classes with a non-core class ratio at 1:20. The mascot is the Golden Bear. The school's principal is Charles Muñoz. We offer 13 Advanced Placement courses (AP-College Board) and 14 Pre-AP course.

Students also have the choice of enrolling in Dual-Credit.

UT of Austin Chem-Bridge college chemistry classes are an option for students interested in science. The college-bound program, AVID, is a great choice for students wanting support preparing for college.

Other college-bound support programs are in place on-campus at Edison. We also have a Health Professions & Public Service Magnet Program to which students must apply and be accepted.

Enrollment is limited.

GRADING SYSTEM All grades are recorded numerically. Courses are generally divided into semesters, with each semester grade of 70 or higher earning 1/2 credit.

Semester grades are averaged and one unit of credit is awarded for the course if the average equals 70 or higher.

For GPA computation, Pre-AP classes received 5 additional points; AP classes receive 10 additional points.

STAAR REQUIREMENTS As part of the requirement for graduation, all Texas students must demonstrate proficiency in writing, reading, math, social studies and science as measured by the STAAR tests.

GRADUATION REQUIREMENT There are three graduating programs endorsed by the Texas Education Agency. The student's final transcript will show which program the student followed.

Copyright (c) The Bettmann Archive

Bear Tracks Newspaper-1979

Fire Sweeps Through Edison

Edison's 2,000 students brought an end to their week with a pep rally in the gym Thursday, November 16. Little did they know that this would be the last day they would gather at Edison for an undetermined amount of time.

About an hour after the alarm had been sounded a four-alarm fire had an estimated $500,000 damage sweep through Edison. The fire originated in the cafeteria and completely destroyed the plastic chairs and tables. Although the fire was confined to the cafeteria and gym areas, there was heavy damage in the halls and classrooms.

The San Antonio newspaper reported that the library was a 50 percent loss. Fortunately this was not true and before long students will be able to use the library before reporting for classes at Jefferson High School. Other parts of the school that are still usable for the gym, band hall and auditorium.

Principal Henry Young was attending a conference in Salt Lake City, Utah when he received the news of the fire.

Jefferson's principal, Orel Akers, was also at the conference and when he heard of the news, he immediately offered Jefferson facilities to Young to housing. "It will, in a few days, be in use again," he said. "Even though I was up to the school board to decide where Jefferson would attend classes, Jefferson was decided upon, as it is the only facility large enough for Edison's student body.

On November 21, administrators, faculty, students and parents met at Mack Travis Middle School to discuss the tentative plan of action for Edison's students. Young reassured the audience that the best possible plan of action would be put into effect. One of the major points of the meeting was when he explained that the three days missed by students had been made up by the school board.

On the following day, attention was paid to the Edison auditorium. Teachers arrived at 8:30 a.m. to receive their materials and receive all other information concerning the school. Upperclassmen showed their buses at 12:00 p.m., while the freshmen and sophomores filed reports with 12:00 p.m. Young, accompanied by representatives from the transit system, purchased buses and where the buses would run, and to inform students of their new schedules.

By Steven Cameron and Paula MacIntosh

After the briefing, students were allowed to retrieve their books and personal belongings from their lockers.

November 27 began what seemed like a whole new school year to Edison students. After a short stay at the Jefferson auditorium, students received maps and met Jefferson students several students, July Wilson, Edsonville were called out to classrooms. Advisors revealed new room numbers to various students, then students set out for their first day at Jefferson.

Students opinions vary about the shift to Jefferson. "It's exciting and adventurous," said Polly Williams. "But also intimidating." "I like coming in the afternoon... the days are short, it," said Susan Zirkel, Willagale

Madison had a different attitude. "It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to stay here," says Margaret. She realized that she likes coming here, but feels she's almost in a rush on the way to class. Many students agreed that they missed the school cafeteria.

As students enjoy the leisure of half-day classes, constructing areas are working around the clock to try and meet their January 2 deadline. High school faculty, administrators and students will get the best Christmas present of all, classes resuming at Edison as soon as possible.

The News Alamo Final 15¢

Friday, November 17, 1978 54 pages

$500,000 school fire worst ever

A four-alarm fire that swept through Edison High School Thursday caused damage estimated to be $500,000. The fire originated in the cafeteria and completely destroyed the plastic chairs and tables. Although the fire was confined to the cafeteria and gym areas, there was heavy damage in the halls and classrooms.

The San Antonio newspaper reported that the library was a 50 percent loss. Fortunately this was not true and before long students will be able to use the library before reporting for classes at Jefferson High School. Other parts of the school that are still usable for the gym, band hall and auditorium.

Principal Henry Young was attending a conference in Salt Lake City, Utah when he received the news of the fire. Jefferson's principal, Orel Akers, was also at the conference and when he heard of the news, he immediately offered Jefferson facilities to Young to housing. "It will, in a few days, be in use again," he said. "Even though I was up to the school board to decide where Jefferson would attend classes, Jefferson was decided upon, as it is the only facility large enough for Edison's student body.

On November 21, administrators, faculty, students and parents met at Mack Travis Middle School to discuss the tentative plan of action for Edison's students. Young reassured the audience that the best possible plan of action would be put into effect. One of the major points of the meeting was when he explained that the three days missed by students had been made up by the school board.

On the following day, attention was paid to the Edison auditorium. Teachers arrived at 8:30 a.m. to receive their materials and receive all other information concerning the school. Upperclassmen showed their buses at 12:00 p.m., while the freshmen and sophomores filed reports with 12:00 p.m. Young, accompanied by representatives from the transit system, purchased buses and where the buses would run, and to inform students of their new schedules.

After the briefing, students were allowed to retrieve their books and personal belongings from their lockers.

November 27 began what seemed like a whole new school year to Edison students. After a short stay at the Jefferson auditorium, students received maps and met Jefferson students several students, July Wilson, Edsonville were called out to classrooms. Advisors revealed new room numbers to various students, then students set out for their first day at Jefferson.

Students opinions vary about the shift to Jefferson. "It's exciting and adventurous," said Polly Williams. "But also intimidating." "I like coming in the afternoon... the days are short, it," said Susan Zirkel, Willagale Madison had a different attitude. "It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to stay here," says Margaret. She realized that she likes coming here, but feels she's almost in a rush on the way to class. Many students agreed that they missed the school cafeteria.

As students enjoy the leisure of half-day classes, constructing areas are working around the clock to try and meet their January 2 deadline. High school faculty, administrators and students will get the best Christmas present of all, classes resuming at Edison as soon as possible.