I dedicated my life to not only the right to vote for women, but laws that treated men and women equally.

I warned Europe to stay out of Latin America and, as President, signed the Missouri Compromise.

I am considered the founder of the United States Navy. I commanded the Bonhomme Richard during the Revolution.

I became Chief Justice and was the first to declare an act of the federal government unconstitutional.

I was born a slave but I escaped to freedom and became a leading abolitionist and public speaker.

I founded a colony in the New World as a religious refuge and supported the freedom of worship and immigration.

As a political philosopher, I believe in the right to life, liberty, property, and constitutional governments.

I restructured the national economy after the Revolution and helped to establish the Bank of the United States.

I became President at the beginning of the Civil War and fought with great difficulty to keep the nation united.

I was known as the “Great Compromiser” since I sponsored the Missouri Compromise. I supported the American System.
What They Are Known For

I represented the interests of the North, believed in preserving the union, and negotiated a treaty with Canada.

As a supporter for states’ rights and representing the South, I challenged the Tariff of 1828 sparking a crisis.

I spent many years of my adult life in service to my nation including becoming the first President of the United States.

I was President and responsible for the rise of the common man, the Trail of Tears, and faced off with Calhoun about nullification.

I authored influential pamphlets during the Revolution including Common Sense and the Crisis papers.

I authored the Declaration of Independence, became President, and purchased the Louisiana Territory from France.

I am known as the first, and only, woman historian of the American Revolution.
The only chance women have for justice in this country is to violate the law, as I have done, and as I shall continue to do.

I wish to have no connection with any ship that does not sail fast; for I intend to go in harm's way.

The relation between the white and colored people of this country is the great, paramount, imperative, and all-commanding question for this age and nation to solve.

The American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power.

It is ... the duty of the judicial department to say what the law is...If two laws conflict with each other, the courts must decide on the operation of each...This is of the very essence of judicial duty.

Because no People can be truly happy, though under the greatest Enjoyment of Civil Liberties, if abridged of the Freedom of their Consciences, as to their Religious Profession and Worship.
...no one ought to harm another in his life, health, liberty, or possessions.

A national debt, if it is not excessive, will be to us a national blessing.

Physically speaking, we can not separate. We can not remove our respective sections from each other nor build an impassable wall between them.

Are we doomed to behold our industry languish and decay yet more and more?” But there is a remedy, and that remedy consists in... adopting a genuine American System.

When my eyes shall be turned to behold for the last time the sun in heaven, may I not see him shining on the broken... fragments of a once glorious Union...Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable!

One of the causes is... the long-continued agitation of the slave question on the part of the North, and the many aggressions which they have made on the rights of the South during the time.
The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connexion as possible...

To say that any State may at pleasure secede from the Union, is to say that the United States are not a nation...

But where, say some, is the King of America? I'll tell you, friend, he reigns above, and doth not make havoc of mankind like the Royal Brute of Great Britain... so far as we approve of monarchy, that in America the law is king.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another...

On the evening of December 25, General Washington in a most severe season crossed the Delaware with a part of his army, then reduced to less than 2000 men in the whole...
